

Tamarack Talk

There is so much to be said about "Tamarack" by Roy Campbell (Lincoln MacVegh) that it is difficult to confine a thorough criticism to one small column. Those who are acquainted with Roy Campbell through reading "The Flaming Terrapin" and "The Waywardness" will find a rich satire on journalists and writers in South Africa that every newspaperman should read, will be more than pleased with Campbell's new book. Here is a collection of poems that are so powerful, so moving with the essence of earth, fire and water, so altogether overflowing with color and richness that they must necessarily draw the attention of lovers of excellent poetry as well as critics.

If I were to choose one word to characterize Campbell's work, I should say, and I think after reading these recent poems and "The Flaming Terrapin," many will decide with me, that "fire" is the key word to Campbell. Rarely is there a page in the earliest work in which we cannot find "fire." In the "Tamarack" poems we have, besides the frequent use of the word itself, an underlying, subconscious feeling of "fire." The poet, himself, is on fire, he is incandescent with desire to express himself. How beautiful that he does it so well! How remarkable that he experiences the breath of the parched African soil, goes through the horrors of a dedicated existence, and even though his "lips are venomous with truth" because the desert starved him into being, can still come "Out of the dark and into the light of the plain. To see with the silver lanterns of rain."

We come very close to the root in several particular poems. We can understand his sensations, and we can marvel at his poems while yet consciously reeking with acridity for the desert still express a sense of praise for all that is nature.

There is no sea so wide, no waste so sterile. But holds a rapture for the sons of strife. There is a great deal in "Tamarack," about poets and poets who are not of the ordinary world, who are the scorned and rejected of men, who must live alone apart from the world, yet who, in the last analysis, are the progenitors of the future. Read "Poets in Africa" and "The Making of a Poet." Here is the latter:

In every land there is some restless star Who toms the cows and heads each far-camper. Till the old folk unite in jealous fear To hunt him from the pastures where they feed.

Last in the night he hears the fancies crash And, desperately, let his courage fall. Across his hollow hands with something Stung the heavy whipcord of his tail. Far from the phantoms of horns that ward the sleeping heads, he keeps the wall at bay. At midnight by slinking leopard speered. And guided by the fireman through the day.

We find in "The Palm" the same thought of working under duress and oppression. "Each inch of my story was wrested with a groan. Crowded with fire from the base of my throne And drawn like a wire from the heart of a stone. Though I soar in the height with a shape of delight, Lifting my stem like the string of a kite, Yet through its tense nerve do I measure my might. The strain of its curb is the strength of my fight."

You must read "A Song for the People," "The Serf," "The Zulu Girl," "To a Pet Cobra" to appreciate the depth and penetrating emotion in Campbell. You must read "Festivals of Flight" for his little jibe at travel in an unusually keen lyrical manner. In fact, you must read all these poems to see for yourself how beautifully a contemporary poet has constructed a work of art in words. For indeed, Roy Campbell's potency of expression, his lyrical fluency of rich and vigorous words, his collection of poems a treasure for the finest of libraries. It makes us rather read poetry all the more. It demonstrates to us, as do the beautiful poems of Dorothy Byrd, that there are contemporary writers who are making literature.

Things to note when you drive the new Pontiac

The moment you step into this car you will begin discovering pleasant things. First, how easily Pontiac handles any road, no matter how rough. The slender steel-and-rubber wheel invites a "finger grip" and that's quite sufficient. You use little effort in braking or clutching.

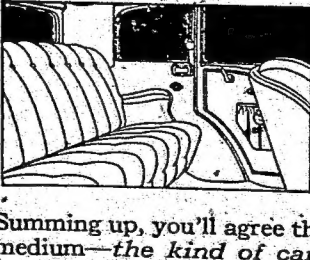

You'll remark the quick getaway . . . the rapid acceleration . . . the smoothly sustained speed. Pontiac has a 60-horsepower engine so ample in size that it need never be overworked. Hence it stays smooth.

You'll experience a new riding ease. Springs are deep, cushions agreeably form-fitting, of course. But more important, Pontiac's chassis is cushioned with live rubber at more than 40 points.

You'll sense extra security in Pontiac. The famous Fisher Body wood-and-steel construction is snugly insulated against outside cold, heat, and dampness. Corn and windshield pillars are built in one piece—a leak-proof, rattle-free construction. The broad base of the big brakes tells the story of unusual stopping power.

You'll find the Pontiac interior tastefully fitted, appointed, finished. Rich leathers in the open models. In all, an atmosphere of fine craftsmanship pleasing to your pride.

Summing up, you'll agree that Pontiac Six is indeed a happy medium—the kind of car you want at the price you want to pay.

*Other body types, in addition to those shown, are the Sport Coupe at $815, and the 4-Door Sedan at $845. One important step in reducing your cost of car ownership is Oakland-Pontiac's policy of equipping its cars ready for the road. The prices you note above are for cars delivered and equipped in Norway. The prices include tire and rear bumpers, four hydraulic shock absorbers, five wire wheels, and extra tire tube and tire lock. Wood wheels optional at no extra cost.

The Children

A Blower of Bubbles

Now just imagine a little boy that knows how to make bubbles so strong that they will not ever burst, but stay shining and round until they are needed any more. When that time comes they just dry up and become quite hard and crusty.

You have probably walked through the fields and seen numberless little white, foamy bubbles on the grass or clover stems? Would you ever suspect that inside of each bubble was the tiny, half-colored, invisible creature that designed and blew it? Don't you think that it would be just to blow one's own house?

This interesting insect is called a frog-hopper or a spittlebug, and when it comes out of the egg it looks very much like a miniature submarine. It seems to know just what is expected to do next, for it climbs by on a grass stem and begins at once to encase itself with a shimmering mass of foam.

First of all it puts a drop of sticky fluid on the stem and then with the very special bubble-blowing machine at the tail-end of its body it begins to blow one bubble after another in this way:

Into the sticky fluid it dips the machine, as we did the bubble-blower upside down in the soapy water, just enough to cover the opening. Then with a pressure from inside the body, just as we blow through the pipette, it blows one bubble, then another and another, and soon you would imagine these bubbles were gay, fat, juicy little bugs anywhere about.

Careless Artist Puzzle

Here is a picture drawn by a careless artist, who has made a mistake in the drawing of it. See if you can find them.

Why I Was Late for School One Day

One morning when I woke up it was almost eight o'clock. When I had washed my face and put on my clothes it was quarter past eight. I walked along very slowly. When I came to the brook it seemed to say, "Come and wait in me."

I sat down and rested under the elm. The brook kept murmuring "Come and wait in me. Come and wait in me."

I finally gave in, slowly put down my books, yawned and went for a walk in my stockings. I splashed my feet around in the water. How warm it felt! Suddenly something grabbed one of my feet. I drew my foot out and saw a mud that was gripping my big toe.

After a long struggle I made the toe let go. I think he must have liked human toes by the way he hung on. I limped on to school where I arrived. I was met with, "Anne, where have you been? You are nearly an hour late."

"Nowhere, Miss . . ." I faltered. "I'll see you after school, Anne, came in a sharp voice."

The Children's Corner

A Blower of Bubbles

Now imagine a little bug that blows bubbles so strong that they will not ever burst, but stay around until they are not needed any more. When that time comes they just dry up and become little bits of glass.

These bubbles walked through the air and landed on the grass. They were so light that you could blow them away with a puff of air.

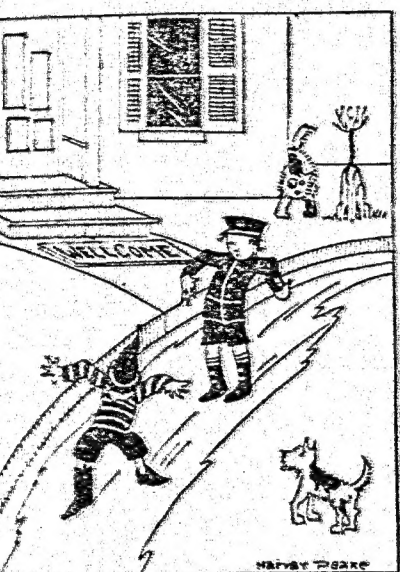

The blowing insect is called a bubble-bug, and when it blows a bubble it looks very much like a miniature submarine. It goes to the bottom of the bubble and begins to climb up on a green stem and begins at once to cover it with a shimmering mass of bubbles.

When it puts a drop of sticky stuff on the stem and then with the very special bubble-blowing machine at the end of its body it begins to blow another bubble after this way.

When the bubble it dips the machine, as we dip the bubble-pipe upside down in the soapy water, just enough to cover the opening. Then with a pressure from inside the body, just as we blow through the pipe, it blows out a bubble, then another and another and soon you would think there was any fat, little bug anywhere about!

I went shame-facedly back to my seat. I let it all stop to listen to the book again when I'm on my way to school.

A Letter from Thelma

My dear Aunt Betsy and Cousins: One fine morning as I was starting out for school, my father and brothers were out starting out with "Victor" and "Dick", the horses, to haul some lumber they were going to use about the bathing pool they were to build, and which is now a brook, which crosses the road that leads to my school. When they reached the brook, they jumped two deer, which, of course, followed the brook right down to the road which I was going on.

I was singing to myself as I was walking along when all suddenly some thing stepped right out of the bushes, but just a short distance ahead of me. I saw the horse on one of them, and of course my first thought was that it was a power, and believe me, I turned myself about and put for home as fast as I could go. I turned off from the main road and as I gave them all of the road, they went and I took a road leading to one of my neighbors. My home would then be in sight across the field from this neighbor's house, which was a mile to me. In my excitement, I dropped a parcel which I had in one hand, and it fell in the other, and as I picked it up, I was, I turned back and grabbed up that parcel, turning so quickly I stumbled down. Perhaps my screams frightened them away, as I did not see anything more of them until just at night we all saw a herd of five or six deer grazing in the pasture on the side of Mount Pleasant, just back of my house.

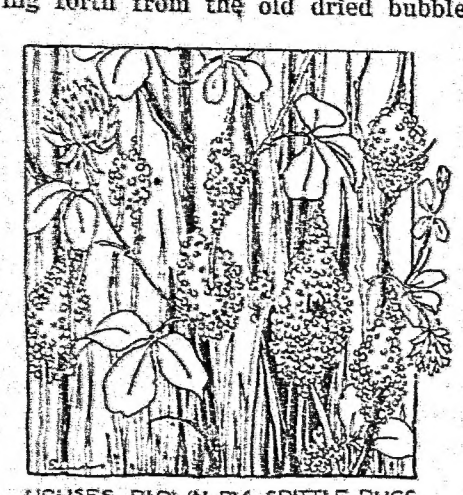

Of course, upon my return home, Ma explained to me how it all came about. Now I wonder if Aunt Betsy and the Cousins will think me a coward! Anyway, I went off to school Monday morning all by my lonesome, none the worse for my scare the Friday before.

I will close with my recipe for chocolate cake: 1 cup of sugar, 2 cook spoons of cocoa, mix well; 1 1/2 cup butter or compound, cream with above mixture; 1 cup of sour milk, 1 teaspoon vanilla. Put in sieve 1 1/2 cups of flour and 1 teaspoon of salt, sift together two or three times and stir well with mixture. Last of all, add one egg and beat until smooth. Bake in moderate oven.

This is a nice, velvety cake. We are very fond of this cake, baked in two round tins, and putting in the middle and on top, chocolate whipped cream, made as follows: 1 large cup thick sweet cream (very cold); mix two round tins of confectioners' sugar, wet up with a little cream and little vanilla, and whip all together until thick enough to stay on cake. Good-bye.

—Thelma Edith Andrews.

the house, feeding meantime on insects that have been caught in the sticky walls, the spittle-bug rests a little while. The bubble will begin to dry up and form a hollow shell about its body. A few days later, if you watch very carefully, you will see what appears to be a stranger creeping forth from the old dried bubble.

We heard it said: A boy in town, whose "chore" it is to drive home the family cow at night, did so, recently, and neglected to tie up the "critter" and he started off for a game of golf. The cow, whose offspring was within reach, revolved all the milk in the natural way—and father was relieved of a job—as well as the family milk. We wonder what father thinks of golf, and the boy of father.

WHEELER'S CIRCUS COMING

On Tuesday, May 26

Wheeler and Sautelle Circus, wild animal show, and Texas Ted's Wild West will open the season of big tops at Oxford County Fair Grounds between Norway and South Paris.

In the circus world Al F. Wheeler is famed as the wonder showman, as his show has grown from a small wagon show 25 years ago, to its present enormous size. Last winter the combination of Wheeler's New Model Show with those of Sig Sautelle's circus wild animal arena and wonderland, and Texas Ted's Wild West Show, makes this one of the greatest motorized circuses.

Among the features of the big show are the only dancing ponies on earth. The only goat tight-rope walkers in all the world. The only trained Florida razor-back hogs; these never before trained hogs can understand every word, the trainer, Carl Clark, utters, and what gives the circus a touch of plausibility to this statement is the instant obedience of these fierce actors to his every spoken command.

The menagerie is far and away the largest and most complete set of savage beasts ever assembled with a motorized show, and as the fame of the show depends primarily upon its great animal acts, no expense is ever spared to keep it up to its high standard. The stock has been unusually generous this year, and there are baby lions, baby tigers, baby wild cat, baby laughing hyena, baby leopard, and three baby monkeys. One of the stellar attractions is Spiffie, largest black named Nubian lion in captivity; this giant fighting lion is the only wild animal that the trainers of the circus have been unable to subdue.

There are scores of pretty girls, who do daring feats on trapeze far aloft in the dome of the big top, and on horse back, and on the ground. Many new and thrilling acts are offered by famous aerialists, who seem to have invisible wings. There will be of course the army of laugh-provoking clowns, with their trickery and fun, that takes place between the acts, all along the hippodrome track, with a new crop of laugh "gags" that convulse audiences, and many of the "joos" are internationally known.

An outstanding feature with Wheeler and Sautelle's Circus is Texas Ted's Wild West Show, Champion trick riders of the world, in a daring, dashing and breath-taking display of horsemanship feats, abhors by cowboys and cowboys; kings and queens of the lariat, an absolutely and overwhelmingly genuine, original western round-up show.

The street parade for which the Wheeler and Sautelle Circus is distinguished, will leave the fair grounds promptly at noon, rain or shine. There are a tremendous variety of features, extravagant displays and superlative condition of people and things in this combined wild animal show and circus, and Wild West street pageant, which has brought an enviable prestige from the wonderful band wagon ablaze with scarlet and silver and green to the outlandish looking clowns in his ear, quarrelling with his donkey.

Two face acts are given at the show grounds, immediately preceding each performance. Performances are scheduled for 1:30 o'clock for the afternoon and 7:30 o'clock for the night show. The doors will open one hour earlier.

Saco Valley Larger Parish

Ministering to Lovell, Number Four, Fryeburg Harbor, North Fryeburg, Stow. Rev. Clifford V. Cross in Charge.

The Bible Class met at the Fryeburg Harbor church on Monday evening. This completes the course of study until the fall. To familiarize the public with the nature of the Bible study held the past few years, the following is a gist of what has been carried on under the supervision and teaching of Rev. Clifford Cross. Three years ago the Bible Class was an innovation at Lovell. The introductory course was "How to Enjoy the Bible". Two years ago at Lovell Mr. Cross instructed the class in the course, "The Life and Writings of Saint Paul". This study proved most redeeming.

Last year, "How the Old Testament Came to Be", was the subject of the course of study. The innovation of these courses at Lovell met with such success that two years ago Mr. Cross introduced the course at Fryeburg Harbor and last year a study class was organized at North Fryeburg. By way of summary, Lovell has had a three year course in Bible study, Fryeburg Harbor a two year course and North Fryeburg a one year course. These classes met at the home of the various members. At the close of one hour of study, refreshments were served by the hostess, after which a social hour was enjoyed. Such meetings at the homes have been the means of better acquaintance between the pastor, his wife and parishioners. Similar courses will be resumed in the fall throughout the parish as they have not only been helpful in the way of education, but have been socially beneficial to those who participated. The Fryeburg Harbor Ladies' Aid will hold a supper and entertainment at the Methodist vestry on Friday evening, May 22nd.

There will be a change in the public worship services for next Sunday. The Frank Shaw Post American League will be the guests at the Universalist chapel in North Fryeburg for the memorial service at 10:30 a. m. The Methodist church at Fryeburg Harbor will invite to participate in the service. Rev. Clifford Cross will be the speaker. The other services for the day will be as usual. North Fryeburg Sunday school at 9:00 a. m. The Fryeburg Harbor Sunday school at 9:30 a. m., the Epworth League at 7:00 p. m. The Lovell village Sunday school at 10:00 a. m. Public worship at 7:00 p. m. in Lovell.

A Memorial Sunday service will be held at the Baptist Church, May 24, at 10:30 o'clock, daylight time. It will be a service and everyone is urged to attend. Sermon by Rev. A. E. Roberts, assisted by Rev. Eleanor B. Forbes of the Universalist Church. Daughters of Union Veterans are to meet at the hall at 10 a. m. and march in a body to the church. Civil War veterans and widows of the same, Spanish and World War
veterans, Sons of Veterans and Boy Scouts are expected to attend both the Sunday service and the Memorial Day exercises with the Daughters of Union Veterans. Memorial Day, the children of the community are to meet at the home fire burning, ever bright and
cheery for the other brothers and sisters
who enjoyed nothing better than the home
visits with her and the occasional visits
they could persuade her to make with them. And going to see "Stella" was a bright spot in the lives of many other
who knew and loved her as their own.
She had watched many youngsters grow from infancy to homes and families of their own and had a kindly interest in their joys and sorrows. And many of them will recall with a sigh for by-gone days the delectable taste of those most delicious hermits that tickled the palates of old and young and no one else ever seemed able to get the hang of their flavor, no matter how hard they tried.

Her last illness was of only a few days, although she had been more or less of an invalid for the last few years. A gradual lessening of that boundless energy which she had used so freely for others left her with no vitality to resist
a severe attack of bronchitis and the end came very suddenly. Although of frail health, she had made a home for a brother, Sumner Bean, and a cousin, Sewell Piquette, who has lived with them many years. When unable to attend to all the duties of a farm home, they have most cheerfully and willingly assisted her in any way they could. Part of the past winter and this spring they have had a woman to do the housework.

She is survived by three sisters and two brothers: Belle, wife of George Foster of Lowell, Mass.; Sumner of Albany;
Cora, wife of Harry Savin of Bethel;
Arthur, of Norway; Ada, wife of Lauren
Lord of South Paris, and two nephews, Charles Foster of Lowell, Mass., and Glyndon Savin of Boston, Mass., also many cousins and friends who will sadly miss her cheery welcome and ready smile for many a long day to come.

Services at the home on Thursday
the 21st, at 2 p. m., daylight time. The Rev.
W. I. Bull of North Waterford in charge of the services and S. S. Greenleaf funeral director. The bearers were Sumner and Arthur Bean, Harry Savin and Lauren Lord. Interment in the family lot in the Hunt's Corner cemetery.

ALBANY

Miss Estella Bean

Estella Bean, who passed away at 1:30
Monday morning, May 18, at her home in Albany, was the eldest of seven children born to Ephraim and Ann Johnson Bean.
She was born September 19th, 1857, and except for being employed at the Bethel House where Mr. Lovejoy was proprietor, one season, and in Massachusetts for some time, she had always been at home,
except when illness called her to the bedside of neighbors and relatives. The father, mother and wife still passed away years ago, their going eased by her tender care. She was a tower of strength to others in sickness and sorrow, and a staunch and loyal friend, giving freely of those things that go so far to make life worth the living. To her the trite but true saying, "She was one of the salt of the earth," very aptly applied. Even with failing health, she still gave much thought and cheer to all who knew her.

After the passing of the mother, she was mother to them all and "kept the home fire burning," ever bright and
cheery for the other brothers and sisters
who enjoyed nothing better than the home
visits with her and the occasional visits
they could persuade her to make with them. And going to see "Stella" was
a bright spot in the lives of many other

South Paris

MRS. HANNAH E. WRIGHT

The death of Mrs. Hannah Elizabeth Wright, 83, occurred at her home in South Paris, Wednesday morning, May 20, after an illness of a few weeks. She is the last of a large family.

She was born in Sweden, March 29, 1848, the daughter of William and Sally Chute Woodbury. At the age of 19 she was married to James E. Wright and they resided in Dixfield, afterward at Paris Hill, before settling at South Paris about forty years ago.

The deceased was a prominent member of the Congregational church and associated societies. For some years she sang in the church choir and had been a member of Mount Hope Rehearsal Lodge. Her husband passed away in 1920. She leaves a daughter-in-law, Mrs. Elora Wright; three nephews, Walter and Frank Jones of Massachusetts and Chas. H. Howard of South Paris; two nieces, Susie Johnson and Gertrude. Among the cousins are Edward Woodbury of South Paris, Mrs. Frank S. Chandler of Auburn, Mrs. Francella Purinton of Andover, Mass., and Wesley K. Woodbury, Esq., of Folsville, Pa.

MRS. MARY E. DANIELS

The death of Mrs. Mary E. Daniels occurred May 14, at the home of her son, William, Alfred M., of Paris Hill and Arthur, of Augusta. She is also survived by one sister, Mrs. Emily Young of Paris, and four brothers, William S. Mason of Paris, Bradley C. of Allston, Mass., Elmer of Pepperell, Mass., and Charles Mason of Lewiston.

The funeral, Saturday afternoon, at the home of William M. Daniels, was attended by Rev. E. Lamb of Mechanic Falls. Burial was in the family cemetery near the former Daniels farm in the Whittemore District, Paris.

Among those from away who attended the funeral were Mr. and Mrs. Bradley C. Mason of Allston, Mass., Elmer Mason of Pepperell, Mass., Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Mason of Lewiston and two daughters, Mrs. Staples of Pepperell, Mass., and Mrs. Hazel Mason, of Lewiston.

WILL CELEBRATE AT FAIR GROUNDS

Plans are developing for the Fourth of July celebration at the fair grounds of Mt. Mead, I. O. O. F., and Arthur Foster Post American Legion.

A tentative program includes an automobile parade in South Paris and Norway, ending at the fair grounds, where a carnival, band concert, ball games and light harness racing will fill the holiday with amusements and sports.

This will be a district celebration and draw from many towns. Preparations are being made to handle a crowd, automobiles and all.

MRS. JENNIE O. WALKER

After several weeks of infirmity, following a fracture of the hip, and later a shock, Mrs. Jennie O. Walker passed away at her home, May 14.

Mrs. Walker was born in Denmark, May 7, 1836, the daughter of Albin P. and Olive Wentworth Lord. She married Albert W. Walker, and they lived in Denmark for a time, coming to South Paris forty-two years ago. Mr. and Mrs. Walker lived to celebrate their golden wedding. Mr. Walker passed away Aug. 5, 1926.

She was a valued member of the Congregational Church and of Mount Pleasant Rehearsal Lodge. She is survived by three children: Percy M. Walker, of Newport, N. H.; Eva, wife of Chas. H. Howard, and Alta, wife of Robert E. Wase, of South Paris. Another daughter, Marie, wife of Nathan Chase of Iton, N. Y., died in 1918. There are four grandchildren, Priscilla Chase of Iton, N. Y., and Albert, Olive and Roland Wase of South Paris. She is also survived by one sister, Mrs. Ida Bennett, of Dover, N. H.
